Flu and Deep Snow Force Salem Schools To Close; Re-Open April 7; District Travel Is Still Impeded

Unpredictable March and the influenza epidemic held a steady grip on Salem today.

The board of health late Tuesday ordered Salem public schools closed for the remainder of this week, thereby effecting the closure of the system until April 7, when the annual spring vacation ends.

Salem parochial schools also closed Tuesday, but will resume Monday.

Highways throughout the area were closed as high winds whipped a heavy snowfall into impassable drifts.

Route 14, north of Salem and in the vicinity of North Benton was impassable today. It was reported that more than 50 cars were jammed in one area late last night after a truck and semi-trailer had jack-knifed across the highway.

Hotels Over-crowded

This one road alone sent a chilly hoard of travelers back into Salem last night in search of accommodations for the night. Hotels were filled to capacity and one reported several couples sleeping in the lobby and more than 20 turned away.

Another hotel took care of about 20 persons on lobby couches and chairs and turned an unestimated number away. All tourist homes were filled here.

In Lisbon, the county seat, the Irwin Brown murder trial was held up today as jury members and prospective jury members were unable to travel for the opening of court this morning.

Seven were stranded at the bus station in East Liverpool and two other jury members were unable to get out of Columbiana today for the trial.

Morning newspapers, usually in Salem from Cleveland and Pittsburgh early each day, arrived just before noon.

Besides Route 14, state highway patrolmen said Route 45, near Ellsworth, was blocked and Route 62 between Salem and Canfield, was nearly impassable and "growing worse."

Salem schools were closed after an unusually heavy absenteeism yesterday. The schools reported 28 per cent absent yesterday.

"The layoff this week and the regular vacation next week may help to check the spread of the flu, said Dr. R. T. Holzbach, city health commissioner."

Because the schools were ordered closed by the health department.

107 MISSING AFTER BLAST IN ILLINOIS

Nine Are Saved; Fourteen Found Dead; Fumes Hamper Rescue

(By Associated Press)

CENTRALIA, Ill., March 26—A mine official expressed belief today that 122 men had perished in a mine explosion near here yesterday.

Of a total of 131 miners trapped, nine were brought out alive, one was brought out dead, and 14 were counted dead at the bottom of the 540-foot shaft.

That left 107 unaccounted for, and the man who did the checking, Chief Electrician Fred Hellmeyer, said he had no hope of finding them alive.

But not all hope was abandoned, and rescue teams still were trying to get through poisonous gas and fallen timbers to save any who might have survived the fumes.

Worse In 19 Years

If none of the missing men is found alive, this will go into the records as the nation's worst coal mine disaster in nearly 19 years—since 193 was killed at Mather, Pa., May 19, 1928.

It would be the worst in Illinois since the Cherry mine disaster of 1909, which took 259 lives.

The explosion occurred with a rumbling "whoosh" at about 3:30 p. m. (CST)—just before the day shift of 131 was about to give way for a night crew. The night men were standing around waiting for their time and for that reason there was no shortage of rescue workers.

Clouds of thick, milky gray smoke curled out of the shaft and before it faded in the cold wind ambulances, inhalators, doctors and nurses were on the way from a radius of 50 miles and more.

Anxious, grieving families, still holding to a thread of hope as the chill night hours passed with only nine of their men brought out alive, pressed against ropes at the pit head and watched the mercy news come and go.

The mine is the Centralia Coal Company's No. 5, an old one, which has been producing 2,100 tons a day. Unlike many others in this area, it is not isolated; it is in the thick of the populous village of Wamac, a southern suburb of Centralia, beside the Illinois Central railroad yard and car shop.

Fumes Halt Rescuers

Eighteen hours after the blast trapped virtually a complete shift yesterday as it was about to leave work, rescuers, wearing gas masks, were held back by poisonous fumes halfway along the three and one-half mile passageway.

Squads of workmen toiled to seal off side entries and improve ventilation.

Walter J. Johnson, general superintendent of the Centralia Coal Company, operator of the mine, said that about 40 rescue workers were in the mine sealing off all side entries to improve ventilation as soon as possible.

Two Slayers Must Die At Ohio Pen

COLUMBUS, March 26—The Ohio Supreme court today rejected the appeals of two convicted slayers—Kenneth Salter of Toledo and Fred Worman, Jr., of Cincinnati—and fixed April 16 for their death in the electric chair.

Salter was convicted of the rape-slaying of 11-year-old Barbara Dunn of Brazil, Ind. He was alleged to have chloroformed the child and then attacked her while a guest in her home last June 1.

Worman was found guilty of shooting to death a Cincinnati taxi driver, Buddy White, last June 21. White's body was thrown into a ditch and his automobile was stolen.

Patterson, Ambassador To Poland, Will Not Return

WASHINGTON, March 26—President Truman said today that Ambassador Richard C. Patterson is not returning to his post in Yugoslavia.

Mr. Truman gave no further explanation. The Patterson disclosure came after Arthur Bliss Lane's resignation as ambassador to Poland so that he can "speak and write openly" of what he saw in that Soviet-dominated country.

Patterson has given a series of lectures on conditions in Yugoslavia which have been criticized in the Yugoslav press.

Overseas Veterans Oppose $10-Month Ohio Bonus Plan

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS, March 26—Opposition to a flat $10-a-month service bonus for Ohio war veterans mounted today as legislative subcommittees labored to draft proposals for a vote in the general assembly.

Spokesmen for veterans' organizations said those who served overseas felt they should receive payments of at least $15 a month as originally proposed.

House and senate subcommittees after joint hearings have tentatively agreed to the flat $10 payment for service between Dec. 7, 1941, and

MOTOR INDUSTRY SURVEY UNDERWAY

Seek to Learn Public's Whims as Postwar Claims Begin to Fade

(By Associated Press)

DETROIT, March 26—The estimated backlog of 5,000,000 unfilled new car orders apparently is beginning to look a little exaggerated to the automobile merchandisers.

To obtain facts of the situation regarding cancelled as well as unfilled orders, the National Automobile Dealers' association is planning a survey through state and major local car dealer associations. These latter organizations, through questionnaires will in turn seek information from individual dealers.

The surveys will not reach all new car dealers and as a result will miss some bona fide orders; but it should give the best information obtainable concerning how new car business is holding up, particularly with respect to the extent of cancellations and the reasons given for them.

The senate passed bills to set up educational standards for embalmers and funeral directors; make permanent the soldier voting law, and place public utilities commission examiners under civil service.

V-J Day Statements

In the exuberance following V-J day a lot of fantastic estimates of accumulated automobile business were given out; some enthusiastic sales executives asserted the industry could not catch up with the demand if it produced at top levels for five years.

Others declared there was an immediate demand for upward of 12,000,000 new passenger automobiles; they reached their total by merely adding up normal production for nearly four years—the wartime period during which no civilian cars were made.

Nobody in the car industry visualizes demand for new vehicles as drying up; but most of the sales chiefs and competent industry observers know that it already has begun to level off.

Asides from price considerations, the probability that the 1948 models, in engineering and styling advances, will be the industry's first postwar competitive cars, undoubtedly has had some part in the leveling off of current demand.

One of the most definite assertions that can be made about the forthcoming models is that a large number of them will present the "flush contour" styling that entirely eliminates rear fenders by spreading the body itself over the wheels.

Holdup Man Slain, 2 Officers Wounded

CINCINNATI, March 26—A Dayton man was killed and two detectives wounded in a gun battle following a West End cafe holdup early today, Detective Harry O. Jones reported.

Lemuel J. Rose, 37, of Dayton, was shot to death and Detectives Myers Stine, 32, and Matthew Melton, 36, were wounded. Stine was wounded in the left side and Melton in the elbow.

The detectives surprised Rose and George Strange, 42, of Dayton, counting money in a second-floor apartment about two blocks from Tony's cafe on Spring Grove ave. where a hold-up occurred shortly before, Jones reported.

Instead of surrendering, the men began shooting, Jones said. Strange, unhurt in the gun battle, was captured by the wounded detectives.

Jones was unable to estimate the amount of money taken in the cafe holdup.

President Concerned Over Rise, Makes Appeal To Industries

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 26—President Truman expressed concern today over rising prices generally and said he hopes industry will cooperate to reduce them.

The President told the 100th news conference of his administration that he hopes other industries would follow the line of the International Harvester Company, Ford and others he said have reduced prices.

He said he does not want to see a spiral in prices which might lead to inflation.

Mr. Truman said he hopes costs will not continue to rise.

He hopes, he said, that business will see the handwriting on the wall. Asked what he meant about the handwriting on the wall, he said that continued price rises would start a spiral of inflation.

Mr. Truman said he has been concerned about increases for some time and that was the reason he asked for continuance of price controls.

He said that his economic advisory council is now making a complete survey of the situation now. Asked for comment on negotiations on wages now going forward, the President said he doesn't think the rubber workers contract will cause any inflation.

Mr. Truman steered clear of committing himself on pending legislation to bar portal-to-portal pay suits.

He said he will give his answer on this legislation when it reaches his desk.

State Department Reveals Several Big-Three Secrets

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 26—A score of long suppressed clauses of the Tehran, Yalta and Potsdam agreements were spread on the record today with an official promise that they were the last of the secrets from the war-time meetings of the Allied Big Three.

The official texts published by the State department included disclosure of an agreement in Tehran by President Roosevelt, Marshal Stalin and Prime Minister Churchill favoring Turkey's entry into the war against the Axis before the end of 1943.

Acting Secretary of State Dean Acheson told the senate foreign relations committee yesterday that Turkey's neutrality aided the Allied cause by barring the way to Axis expansion into the middle east.

The Tehran "military conclusions" spoke of forthcoming negotiations to bring Turkey into the war but left unanswered whether the Turks actually were pressed at the time to join the Allies. They eventually did declare a state of war with Germany and Japan effective March 1, 1945, less than three months before V-E Day.

Also at Tehran, the agreement disclosed, Stalin pledged that should Turkey become a foe of Germany and as a result be attacked by Bulgaria.

Best Trick of 1947

A particular detail of the wage-rate settlement in the rubber industry looms large, if the settlement is going to be used as a national pattern.

The agreement to compromise on wage-rate offers in rubber was accompanied by a significant statement from management. L. M. Buckingham, who represented the "big four" of the industry said:

"The rubber industry will not boost its prices, and as a result of this reasonable settlement, it is altogether probable that rubber products prices will be reduced because of increased production. Raises will be paid not out of inflated sales dollar, but out of a continued high volume of sales."

Not every industry can make that promise. But if any considerable number of wage negotiations in 1947 can be settled on a basis which enables management to stabilize the cost of its products, the wage rise-price spiral can be broken. Wage earners can be given a chance to do something with their inflated scales, besides chase inflated prices.

Wage negotiations are going on in the telephone, steel and automobile industries, among others. They are pending in the coal industry. Virtually every business enterprise in the nation must make a new contract with organized workers sometime during 1947. The question is whether further stimulus will be given to price inflation, or whether wage increases this year can be contained within the industries which are forced to give them. Organized labor still has the power to make or break the United States, depending on its reasonableness or the lack of it.

There are two ways to contain wage increases within an industry, as promised by the rubber industry. One is to pay the increase out of profits. The other is to pay the increase out of the earnings of higher efficiency. The latter has been the orphan child of the great debate over organized labor's campaign to freeze wage rates at war-boom levels, or higher. Labor's own efficiency has been neglected.

Labor's negotiations have asked for more and more, but they have been unable to guarantee the productivity of their clients. Employers have angled fruitlessly for assurance that higher labor costs could be recovered by at least as much work as labor performed under prewar rates.

If negotiators in the rubber industry have discovered how to grant an average of $1.45 cents an hour—11½ cents higher than the old average—without no increase in the cost of rubber products, and with a probable decrease in sight—the trick of the year has been performed.

Smoking Out Communism

President Truman's executive order calling for dismissal of federal employees where there is reasonable doubt of their loyalty is not a decision which was reached on the spur of the moment.

In 1933 when the United States extended diplomatic recognition to Communist Russia, Maxim Litvinoff, then foreign commissar, promised that meddling in the United States' internal affairs would cease, thereby conceding that there had been such meddling. There is overwhelming evidence that the Soviet government has not lived up to its promise.

In the light of this, there is no reason why Communists should be tolerated in the government any more than seditionists. Employees whose loyalty is given to another government are not trustworthy. Lies, dissimulation and the spreading of discontent are their specialties.

During the war when Russia was our ally, the Communists pitched in with a will. What was good for Russia was good for us, too. Forgotten was Stalin's 1928 directive calling for Communists of the world to use war as an opportunity to foster civil insurrection in capitalist nations.

Since the war, however, the Communist line in America has taken a different turning. Upon his denunciation from abroad by the Moscow-trained Jacques Duclos, Earl Browder was relieved as head of the party. Louis F. Budenz, the backslidden Communist who sat in on the sessions at which Browder was kicked out, said it was agreed that the United States was hopelessly capitalistic and not salvageable by the gentle arts of conversion. Subtle means, principally political infiltration, were to be the order of the day.

In such a campaign as President Truman now calls for, the dividing line between no doubt, the shadow of a doubt and reasonable doubt will not be great in many cases. Extreme care must be taken, too, lest witch-hunters get control and begin denouncing all who disagree with them or part their hair on the wrong side. But a Communist, or reasonable facsimile thereof, should no more be tolerated on the government payroll than a capitalist infiltrator, if such a thing there be, would be tolerated in the high councils of the Kremlin.

Too Much Brass?

The military character of the American delegation to the Big Four conference, coupled with President Truman's foreign aid policy, has given Russians the idea American policy is dictated by the army—the United States Army, that is, not the Salvation Army which it thinks is also militaristic.

Russians point out that George C. Marshall, head of the American delegation, is a general; in addition to whom Gen. Mark W. Clark, Lt. Gen. Lucius D. Clay and Maj. Gen. William H. Draper Jr. are serving in various capacities at the conference. One Russian official said America "had enough brass at the conference to make a brass statue of a general."

Russia's factual observation can't be contradicted. It's true the military is unusually well represented at the conference. The assertion, "No, American foreign policy is not dictated by the army," will not satisfy the Russians. But, while replying utmost confidence in the men who are representing them at Moscow, Americans will do well to repeat it at intervals to see if it rings true in the light of developments.

WHILE affairs are moving under high promise and perhaps with high pressure and initiative, yet a tendency to crash through without sound judgment or rationalizing on problematic situations may prove a disturbing and inhibiting factor, thus alienating the support of those disposed to offer financial or other assistance.

Loss and separation may result from rash or impulsive moves. Take time out to consider difficulties and do not be lured by false hopes.

On the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may find things moving into definitely progressive and enterprising grooves, under skill, high pressure and practical initiative and objectives, but these may suffer set-back by want of proper consideration of fundamental values, lured by over-strenuous tactics, by false hopes of over-enthusiasm.

With emotions and impulses to the fore, judgment and logic may be set at naught, causing separation from those wishing to support or by other avenues of loss or defeat.

A child born on this day while having much constructive ability and initiative, may be carried away by over-zeal or impetuosity, causing loss and alienation from friendly interests.

Guarding Your Health

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

Most ulcers of the stomach or first part of the intestine can be treated successfully without operation.

In fact, according to Dr. Edward A. Cooney of Boston, about eight out of ten are of this type. In the remaining cases, however, complications arise which demand surgical treatment if life is to be saved.

Among such complications are perforation, obstruction, severe hemorrhage and recurrent bleeding. Then, too, there are many who believe that an ulcer, when present for a long time, may be a factor in the development of cancer.

Pain in Abdomen

Ulcers cause such symptoms as pain in the abdomen, sickness to the stomach and vomiting. The pain of ulcer usually comes on within one to three hours after eating and may be relieved by taking milk or some alkaline substance such as baking soda.

But, when an ulcer perforates or eats through the wall of the stomach, the pain is extreme, striking suddenly and seeming to center in the pit of the stomach. The muscles of the wall of the abdomen become rigid and hard.

This is a grave emergency and one requiring immediate operation in every case where the patient is in good enough condition to withstand it. The longer operation is delayed, the greater is the danger for the patient.

Before the operation is carried out, it is advisable that the patient be given an injection of sulfadiazine in solution into a vein.

For the first few days after operation, it is also suggested that the patient be given an injection into a vein of some amino acid preparation to supply him with material for building tissues.

Amino acids are the substances which make up the protein parts of food and which are needed for building body tissues. Vitamins C and B-complex are also given in the same way.

When a large amount of bleeding from an ulcer occurs, an attempt should be made to control the emergency situation by giving injections of whole blood into a vein. Later on, after these transfusions have made the patient's condition better, an operation for removal of part of the stomach may be carried out.

Blocking of the opening from the stomach to the intestine in ulcer cases is due to the fact that scar tissue has formed which contracts and narrows the outlet from the stomach.

If this obstruction cannot be relieved by medical treatment within a period of ten days, operation to correct the condition is required.

An individual with an ulcer should, of course, be under the care of his physician so that it can be carefully checked from time to time. If danger of any of the complications mentioned occurs, it may be rapidly detected and the proper surgical measures employed.

Army-Navy Merger Plan Is Drafted

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 26—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower testified today that a detailed presidential order for unification of the Army, Navy and Air Forces already is prepared and awaits only congressional approval of basic legislation.

The five-star general told the Senate Armed Services committee that this order was "agreed upon" as part of the Army-Navy compromise that produced the present legislative plan for a single department of national defense.

Questions by Senator Byrd (D-Va.) who has been critical of the merger legislation, disclosed existence of the proposed presidential order.

Chairman Gurney (R-SD) immediately called for a copy of it and Eisenhower, after conferring with Admiral C. W. Nimitz and Undersecretary of War Royall, produced a copy.

Eisenhower said he has no objection to its publication and Nimitz and Royall agreed.

Although details of the executive order were not made public immediately, Eisenhower assured Byrd that it protects both the Marine Corps and Naval Air power.

The order simply listed functions of the different armed services.

time, without notification, is "an offense against humanity" and that the mines which damaged two British warships last Oct. 22 and killed 44 men could not have been laid without the knowledge of Albania.

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y., March 26—Soviet Russia late Tuesday invoked the veto in the United Nations security council to block a majority decision upholding British mine-laying charges against Albania.

This was the first time the veto had been used in the council since last Sept. 20, when Russia cast it to kill the original United States proposal for an on-the-spot investigation of the Balkan situation. The vote was on an amended British resolution which declared that the laying of mines in peace-garia, Russia would declare war on Bulgaria.

Ordered By Acheson
The State department published the official texts at the direction of Acheson, who agreed to the action at last week's hearings in the house foreign relations committee on the proposal for $400,000,000 of aid to Greece and Turkey.

Committee members did not raise any questions about the Cairo, Casablanca and Quebec conferences which Stalin did not attend.

Aside from the Tehran military conclusions, sections whose texts had not been previously published included:

1. A Yalta conference agreement tentatively fixing German reparations at $20,000,000,000 and authorizing payment from current production and use of German manpower. This was disclosed at Moscow last week by Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov. The United States and Britain have contended that the Yalta plan was superseded at Potsdam.

2. A Potsdam agreement to divide ships of the German navy and merchant fleet equally among Russia, Britain and the United States.

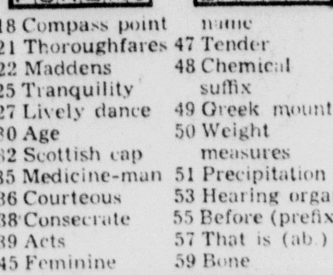

3. A Potsdam agreement that the Montreux convention governing Turkey's control of the Black Sea straits should be revised "as failing to meet present-day conditions." Each of the big three powers was authorized to carry on direct conversations with Turkey on the issue. Soviet Russia's demands have since met with firm U. S. and British opposition.

4. A Potsdam agreement that no reparations should be exacted from Austria. This was cited yesterday at Moscow where Russia supported a Yugoslav claim on Austria for a $150,000,000 payment.

★ WE, THE WOMEN

By RUTH MILLET

We haven't done kids or parents any good by popularizing and dramatizing the words "juvenile delinquency" and considering it a national problem, like the housing shortage.

Whether Johnny and Susie are well-behaved kids who can be depended on isn't fundamentally a national or even a community problem.

And all the talk we've been indulging in that the school should do this, the courts should do something else is just putting off the day of reckoning.

That day is when we put the problem right back where it belongs—in the laps of the parents. Parents aren't going to like it, of course. Because if they once again assume complete responsibility for the behavior of their children, it is going to mean a lot of changes in many families.

A FAMILY PROBLEM
Parents will have to go back to the old-fashioned practice of waiting up for their kids when they go out on dates. That is the only way they can be sure that they get in at a reasonable hour.

What will be even tougher on a good many modern parents is that they'll have to get a little more dignity into their own social lives.

Some day we'll realize that the talking gets us no place and that this so-called national problem of "juvenile delinquency" is really a family problem.

The Nation Today

BY JAMES MARLOW
WASHINGTON, March 26—A man can be a member of the Communist party but, if he is, he can't work for the government. Why? That question may have puzzled some people when President Truman on Saturday ordered the firing of any "disloyal" government employee.

Who is a "disloyal" government worker? Anyone, under Mr. Truman's rules, who is a Communist or fellow-traveler, that is, who follows the Communist "line."

Why then is the Communist party permitted to exist in this country? Because, under the Constitution, all Americans have a right to freedom of speech and opinion.

So Communists are protected by the Constitution, although there's talk now in congress of outlawing the Communist party.

If congress passes such a law, the Communists are sure to ask the supreme court to declare the law unconstitutional.

So then comes this question: If a man has a constitutional right to be a Communist, wouldn't that right be interfered with if a government employee is fired because he's a Communist?

This is the government's answer to that:

Working for the government is a privilege, not a right. The government is free to decide who shall and shall not work for it.

Therefore, Mr. Truman can say: No Communist can work for the government.

And that's the ruling of the federal court, as this story will show. A man named Morton Friedman had worked for the government from 1935 until 1944.

Then the Civil Service commission fired him because it decided there was "reasonable doubt of his loyalty."

The commission said Friedman had been a member of a "Communist-dominated" organization called American Peace Mobilization.

That organization, before Germany attacked Russia in World War II, had opposed the entry of this country into the war against Germany.

Friedman tried to have the commission's decision in his case set aside by appealing to the U. S. district court and then the appeals court.

Both courts turned him down and upheld the commission's right to fire him. The appeals court said: "The United States has the right to prescribe the qualifications of its employees and to attach conditions to their employment."

Friedman then appealed to the Supreme court which, by refusing to hear him, in effect upheld the two lower courts.

That Supreme court action came on March 17. Five days later Mr. Truman ordered all Communists out of government jobs.

Coal Group Asks For Equal Shipping Rates

COLUMBUS, March 26—The Ohio Coal association carried a battle for a seven cent per ton reduction in rail rates between the eastern Ohio fields and the Youngstown area to the Ohio utilities commission today.

One member, Karl Marquis, president of W. H. Warner, Inc., Cleveland, told a commission hearing that if his company lost the Youngstown market for lump and egg coal, "we couldn't operate within ten days."

The Inter-State Commerce commission recently granted western Pennsylvania coal operators a seven cent reduction into the Youngstown area which includes Warren, Niles, and Girard, but the Ohio coal operators could not make a similar request there because their business was entirely within the state.

Marquis said that the ICC action, unless matched by a similar order from the utilities commission here, would upset a rate equalization which had been in existence since 1910.

Marquis told the hearing, conducted by W. V. Blake, the commission superintendent of rates and services, that Ohio coal "is one purpose coal for steam only."

"Western Pennsylvania coal has other places to go," he said.

Meeting Is Held By PTA Of Fourth Street School

Dr. Richard Harwood, guest speaker when Fourth Street PTA met Monday evening, stressed the importance of early care of teeth.

X-ray slides were shown and a short reel film on tooth brushing procedure illustrated the topic.

Mrs. Robert Loefer, chairman, discussed further plans of the benefit to be held April 11, at the business session in charge of Mrs. W. C. Ferral, president. A gift of $32 was voted for the Girl Scout rehabilitation fund.

Election of officers was postponed until the next meeting.

Miss Lois Thexton of Youngstown entertained with two piano solos; "Raindrop Prelude" (Chopin) and "Allegro" (Noletto).

Mrs. Leo Beall and Mrs. Earl Shasteen, room mothers of first grade children, and their committees served the refreshments.

But, he said, after such information is received an investigation is made to decide whether it's right.

A person found to be "disloyal" by his department heads can take various appeals, on up to the Civil Service commission heads.

Both courts turned him down and upheld the commission's right to fire him. The appeals court said: "The United States has the right to prescribe the qualifications of its employees and to attach conditions to their employment."

Friedman then appealed to the Supreme court which, by refusing to hear him, in effect upheld the two lower courts.

Salem Having Trouble Booking Cage Games For 1947-48

Size Of Local Gym Given As Reason For Difficulty With At Least 4 Teams

Salem High school's 1947-48 basketball schedule may be an empty looking affair when it finally is announced for at least two major opponents and possibly a third may not play in the Quaker gym next season. The News learned today.

Alliance High school, usually on the Quaker card on a home and home basis, has dropped Salem entirely, as was announced last week. The reason for that move, Aviator officials say, is because of the small playing floor here and the lack of fan accommodations.

Two other schools, Youngstown Rayen and one other major opponent, whose officials asked that their school not be identified, are seriously considering dropping Salem next year.

Coach Ralph Robinette of Rayen declared at the state tournament in Columbus Saturday that he "definitely will not play Salem next year unless the game can be scheduled as part of a double header at Youngstown South field house."

Robinette said he was not afraid to play the Quakers in 1947-48 (he added that he knew he would lose the game, anyway) but did not like the idea of playing on the small floor here, where fans can not get in and his own team loses a chance at valuable experience on a tournament size floor.

Faculty Manager Fred Cope of Salem High said school officials here are trying to come to an arrangement with Rayen for a game at the field house, and possibly for a home and home basis next season.

Cope is encountering considerable trouble booking games with new schools and in most cases the Salem floor is given as the reason.

Massillon, Canton McKinley, Berea, Canton Lincoln and Steubenville have been contacted for games next season and although Steubenville is expected to play here, the other schools refused to book Salem.

To date the Quakers have no games carded officially on the Youngstown South field house floor, where the district tournament is always held.

Coach Don Ogden, at East Liverpool the 1946-47 season, was the first mentor to object to the Salem floor in recent years, although Massillon dropped Salem a number of years ago (while Paul Brown was basketball coach) because the size of the floor here.

CY YOUNG TO BE HONORED BY HOME FOLKS SATURDAY

Plan Unusual Banquet To Celebrate Star's 80th Birthday Party

By FRITZ HOWELL
Ohio AP Sports Writer
NEWCOMERTOWN, March 25—Fifty-seven years ago a raw-boned, husky farm lad with an arm like a whiplash trudged out of these Tuscarawas county hills and on to baseball immortality.

He was Denton True (Cy) Young, who will be 80 years old Saturday, and who that day will be the guest of honor at the most unusual banquet-celebration ever offered for a Buckeye sports celebrity.

They have his name wrong on the Hall of Fame scroll, where he is listed as Denton Tsumseh Young, but that little mistake cannot dim the fact that he wound up his minor league career at nearby Canton with a no-hit no-run perfect game, and then added three more no-hitters in his 22-year major league career.

The records show that Old Cy won 511 games and lost 315 in 11 years in the American league and 11 in the National—and that he never received more than $2500 for a year's work. He won more than 30 victories five different seasons, and struck out 2,832 batters, records which have never been approached.

He pitched in the first World Series, winning two and losing one, and at the age of 45, when he lost a 1-0 game to Grover Cleveland Alexander, he hung up his spikes and became the first pitcher to enter the hall of fame.

Saturday some 800 of his neighbors will play homage to this country's most distinguished citizen. No spot in town can take care of the crowd at a single banquet, so the meal will be served at five different places and then the throng will merge at the High school auditorium for the ceremonies.

Waite Hoyt, one-time Yankee ace, will be the principal speaker, but Herb Pennock and Sad Sam Jones, both of whom spent 22 years in the majors, will be there too, with J. Herbert and Bill Veeck, sport-shirted president of the Cleveland Indians.

But the home folks will be wait-

Bob Pager Selected 1947-48 Cage Captain

Junior Bob Pager, center on this year's Salem High basketball team, was chosen to captain the Quaker cage squad next season at a luncheon party given for the team by Coach and Mrs. Bob Miller at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Beattie, 1495 Cleveland st., Tuesday night.

Coach Miller held the annual affair to make the selection of the new captain and to decide other matters pertinent to the new season.

The varsity squad members and Senior Managers Charles Alexander and Kenny Smith attended.

Assistant Coach and Mrs. Frank Tarr were also guests.

ing through all those talks for Old Cy to get to his feet and draw his way through some anecdotes of the olden, golden days.

Maybe Cy will tell how he raised the steer which provided the beef for his own banquet; or how, when the Canton team folded back there in 1890, he was traded to Cleveland for a suit of clothes which his manager needed after the disastrous season; or how he had pitched 26 full games and finished 10 others before the Tri-State league quit on July 4, and how in his Cleveland debut he held Chicago to three hits and won 2 to 1; or how he pitched and won a double header from Philadelphia on the season's last day, to bring his Cleveland record to 10 wins and nine losses, and how he stayed over the .500 mark for 15 straight years.

He'll certainly recall his 1897 no-hitter for Cleveland against Cincinnati; the 1904 perfect game against Rube Waddell and the Philadelphia Athletics while he was with Boston, and the 1908 no-hit effort against New York. He may even tell of the 23 hitless innings he wrapped around the 1904 perfect game, the longest hitless streak in history.

Moose Beat Sports In Round Playoffs

The AMVETS and Moose will square off tonight at 9 for the championship of the third round in the city Class A basketball tournament, following Tuesday night's 43-30 victory by the Moose over Si's Sports in the Memorial building.

The defeat eliminated Si's Sports from the round robin. Only the other two teams remain and each have suffered one defeat in the double loss elimination round.

A victory for the AMVETS will give them the third round and also the city title for the season, since they copped the first two rounds also. However, in case the Moose five win, a championship playoff will be held to determine the city title holder.

Staying ahead of Si's all the way, the Moose had no great trouble in winning Tuesday. At all times they had at least a five point margin and stretched it to 13 by the end of the tilt.

Walt Brian and Dick Miner led the winners with nine points each. Ray McGaffick notched nine for Si's, while Kenny Shears collected eight.

COMMUNIST REFUSES TO GIVE REAL NAME

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, March 26— Eugene Dennis, secretary of the Communist party, was dismissed abruptly as a witness before the House Un-American Activities committee today after he refused repeatedly to give his real name.

Robert E. Stripling, chief committee investigator, handed Dennis a subpoena to return before the committee April 9. Dennis took it in his hand.

Stripling told reporters Dennis accepted the subpoena. Dennis told reporters he did not and that you will find it on the floor of the committee room.

Dennis said he challenged the authority of this committee to issue a subpoena. He had requested a chance to testify to outlaw the Communist party. He had been allotted two hours and he was sworn in under an oath to tell the truth.

Committee members hammered at him time after time to give his real name. Stripling said there was "considerable evidence that he has used a number of names both in procuring of fraudulent passports and party activities."
